

The Providores and Tapa Room

We are proud to offer the largest selection of premium New Zealand wines at any restaurant in Europe. We hope you find our list informative and concise - and that you are able to make an informed selection from it. We are constantly evolving our choice of wines, keenly aware of supporting the many vineyards throughout New Zealand with whom we have built strong relationships over the years.

New Zealand's Wine Regions

There are 10 major wine regions in New Zealand. Each boasts an enormous diversity in climate, terrain and therefore, style of wine. (see page 2 for regional descriptions) As a tribute to each of these regions The Providores will be profiling one wine each month in our 'by the glass' programme, allowing you the opportunity to try some of our favourite wines.

1. Northland
2. Auckland
3. Bay of Plenty and Waikato
4. Gisborne
- 5. Hawke's Bay
6. Wairarapa
7. Nelson
8. Marlborough
9. Canterbury and Waipara
10. Central and North Otago

Craggy Range

Craggy Range is a family-owned vineyard based in the Hawke's Bay, but with associated vineyards in Martinborough, Marlborough, Nelson and Bannockburn. Terry Peabody (originally from Canada) and Steve Smith (New Zealand's first viturculturist to become a Master of Wine) have turned Craggy Range into one of New Zealand's finest wine producers. They first met in 1997 and shared a vision of creating a winery producing individual wines expressing the varied terroir New Zealand's landscape offered. Steve and Terry are committed to the long-term development of Craggy Range and now, the second generation of Peabodys are increasingly involved in the business. The vineyard was launched to the world at an event called GIANTS where Dame Kiri Te Kanawa, Tim Finn and Sir Edmund Hillary all appeared. The Providores' own Peter Gordon was also invited - and as guest chef, created a special, celebratory dinner initiating an ongoing bond between The Providores and Craggy Range.

New Zealand Wine Regions

Northland's northern location and closeness to the sea (nowhere is further than 50 kilometres away) give the region a sub-tropical climate – humid, sunny and warm. Northland has NZ's highest average annual temperature and is mainly comprised of clay-rich loam soils over a sub-soil of compact clay. Thanks to the warmth, tropical Chardonnays flourish alongside fuller bodied reds including Syrah and Cabernet/Merlot blends.

Auckland is New Zealand's largest city, with several well-known sub-regions including Matakana, Waiheke, Clevedon and Kumeu. Auckland has a maritime climate with warm, primarily frost free, conditions with reasonably high rainfall. Vineyards are established on clay soils of volcanic, greywacke or mixed alluvial origin.

The Bay of Plenty and Waikato wine regions are fairly small in relation to the more renowned locations of Hawke's Bay and Marlborough. In the Bay of Plenty, grapes are not even the predominant vine fruit - which honour goes to the Kiwifruit. The typically small vineyards focus on Chardonnay and Cabernet blends. Boasting a moderately warm climate, the region's soils are predominantly heavy loams over clay sub-soils.

Gisborne is where Captain James Cook first stepped ashore in New Zealand on 8th October 1769. It wasn't long after that the first European settlers arrived, and in 1871 identified the region's viticultural potential. Gisborne is NZ's third largest wine region and the first place in the world to see the sun rise thanks to its easterly location. Its soil is comprised predominantly of loam, silt and clay, which favour aromatic varieties such as Gewürztraminer and Chardonnay.

Hawke's Bay is the largest premium red wine producing area in New Zealand. Being one of the hottest, driest and sunniest regions, with a maritime climate, it has a huge range of vineyard sites suitable for a diversity of styles. The Gimblett Gravels is Hawke's Bay's most important and famous wine area, but bizarrely it went unplanted until the early 1980's as it had been considered not suitable for high quality grapes. This area is a wonderful illustration of how the French concept of terroir can be applied even in the New World. In 2001 Gimblett Gravels District was formalised - the New World's first classified sub-region based solely on soil.

Wairarapa is located at the south eastern corner of the North Island, and is divided into 3 main sub-regions; Masterton, Gladstone and Martinborough. Pinot Noir is the region's most planted variety and Martinborough has quickly earned a reputation for producing some of the finest in the country. The twenty metre deep gravel soils have also allowed a second star to emerge – rich, robust Chardonnay rivalling many of the vinific world's more historic sites. Climatically, Wairarapa is more aligned to Marlborough than to any of its North Island neighbours - contributing to the country's high-end quality winemaking reputation.

Nelson lies at the northern end of the South Island. The region's wineries are located on the plains, south-west of the town, heading up into the Upper Moutere hills. Facing north towards Tasman Bay, it gets significantly more rainfall than its neighbour - Marlborough. Despite the rain however, the northern exposure gives it long hours of daylight and the gravel-threaded clay soils are renowned for producing richness and texture. The vineyards are mainly small and family-run, and the region is likely to remain small due to the lack of available growing areas.

Marlborough is situated on the South Island's north-eastern tip, bordered by both the Pacific Ocean and the Marlborough Sounds, lending it a maritime climate. The region boasts the picturesque plains of the Wairau Valley, sheltered by the Southern Alps to the south-west and the Kaikoura Ranges to the east. Marlborough is NZ's largest wine region, responsible for around 77% of all its vines, and over 75% of its Sauvignon Blanc.

Canterbury and Waipara are located in the mid-eastern side of the South Island. Waipara translates from Maori literally as 'muddy water', which is an interesting image for the region that is deemed to look most like "classic European wine country". Waipara owes much of its classic wine-growing status to soil types which include gravelly deposits on the flats and terraces and limestone clays on the hillsides. The long, hot autumn period helps to produce rich and spicy Riesling and Pinot Noir.

Central and North Otago are located at latitudes between 44° and 45° South, positioning the region at the extreme southern limit of sustainable winemaking. The inland mountainous location of 'Central' has a semi-continental climate, making it both the hottest, and the coldest, wine growing region in NZ. This fact, combined with its mostly glacially derived soils with rich deposits of mica and schist, makes the area ideal for the production of Pinot Noir, accounting for 80% of its plantings, and aromatic varieties such as Pinot Gris and Riesling. North Otago is situated on the north facing slopes of the Waitaki River, between Duntroon and Kurow and is NZ's newest wine region. First planted in 2001, the vineyards are fairly small, producing a range of cool climate aromatic varieties. Located on limestone, alluvial greywacke and schist soils, the wines demonstrate a distinctive minerality, enhanced by autumns long and slow fruit-ripening.

Coffee & Tea

The Providores uses an exclusive blend of three responsibly sourced Arabica beans developed with Volcano Coffee Works, individually hand-roasted in small batches in South London. The selected beans are then blended, creating a coffee with flavours of rich dried fruits, sherry soaked orange and marzipan. We feel it is perfect as an espresso or served with our organic milk or GM-free soy - and it's great for brewing at home too.
